

Committee:	United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime
Agenda Item:	Combating further drug network development in Central and South America
Main Submitter:	United Mexican States
Co-Submitters:	United States of America, United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, Republic of Honduras
Signatories:	Canada, Argentina, Guatemala, Nigeria, El Salvador, Colombia, Germany, Spain, Finland, Netherlands, United Kingdom, Brazil, Peru

The United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime,

Reaffirming the commitment of Member States to achieving the goals and objectives of the major international drug control conventions already signed,

Recalling the 1961 Single Convention on Narcotic Drugs, the 1971 Convention on Psychotropic Substances, and the 1988 UN Convention against Illicit Traffic in Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances,

Recognizing that drug trafficking undermines national security and economic stability,

Alarmed by the ongoing expansion and modernization of transnational drug organizations operating throughout Central and South America,

Alarmed by the organized criminal groups competing for territorial control in the northern triangle of South America,

Firmly believing in the importance of strengthening and improving already existing organizations and past interventions, to guarantee an efficient use of resources,

Alarmed by the economical impact drugs have on coca-producing farmers,

Deeply concerned by the fact that illegal substance smuggling remains the core of transnational organized crime and the main source of income for criminal groups around the world,

Recognizing the significant threats posed by the illicit production and trafficking of narcotics to both public health and citizen security,

Fully aware of the number of 237,000 peasant families and corrupted farmers in the Andean region that cultivate cocaine on over than 20,000 hectares,

Alarmed by the statistics of the UNODC World Drug Report 2025, showing an increase in the global production of cocaine by more than 34% compared to past years,

Deeply concerned by the fast development of drug trafficking networks and the violence drug cartels bring into communities,

Encouraging efforts to reduce demand for illicit narcotics through prevention, education, and treatment programmes,

Emphasizing that narcotics constitute a transnational threat that needs to be addressed based on a scientific approach involving all Member States,

Acknowledging that security at every border needs to be improved,

Bearing in mind that rehabilitation and public health programs have to be accessible to everyone,

Fully aware of the growth of demand for drugs over the last decade by 23% according to the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime,

1. Calls for the strengthening of border security by implementing advanced technology AI scans of all customs, to identify the drugs that are transported while respecting national sovereignty, by:
 - a. encouraging the developed countries to help the countries that have resource limitations with funds to be able to invest in these units,
 - b. working with high-tech companies to assure prevention and not receive errors,
 - c. technology replacing possibly corrupted employees from customs,
 - d. faster and more in-depth verification;
2. Encourages all nations to implement stricter and more effective multi-factor authentication protocols on cryptocurrency platforms to prevent the illicit exchange of funds linked to transnational organized crime, by:
 - a. enhancing monitoring and reporting mechanisms for suspicious transactions through improved cooperation with financial corporations,

- b. requiring cryptocurrency service providers to enact an advanced and robust system through which an individual's age can be more easily verified,
 - c. encouraging collaboration between international organizations and private sector entities to improve tracing of illicit digital imprints;
- 3. Further recommends developing economic projects and programmes that can help address this problem, by:
 - a. creating employment opportunities for the poor,
 - b. contributing to economic stability,
 - c. providing initiatives for those who are vulnerable to corruption from the cartels;
- 4. Calls upon all member states to create alternative development programs in rural areas affected by coca cultivation, by:
 - a. providing financial support to farmers who are transitioning from coca crops to legal ones,
 - b. improving access to such alternative products markets for rural communities;
 - c. ensuring long term financial support rather than short term;
- 5. Proposes investment in rural infrastructure in order to prevent potential drug production by:
 - a. improving transportation networks that connect isolated areas to markets,
 - b. developing education and healthcare systems;
 - c. improving transportation networks that connect isolated areas to more populated zones,
 - d. guaranteeing a better access to education and healthcare systems,
 - e. avoiding further spread of drugs trafficking and sale;
- 6. Suggests the protection of civilians that live in neighbourhoods dominated by cartels by implementing alarm systems;
- 7. Further invites all Member States to take in consideration and implement stricter rules for the manufacturing and export of precursor chemicals, by:
 - a. strengthening national regulatory frameworks to ensure rigorous monitoring and tracking of companies involving in the distribution and trading of precursor chemicals,
 - b. enhancing transparency and real-time data exchange between law enforcement agencies and international bodies, such as the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) and the Commission on Narcotic Drugs (CND),

- c. supporting more rigid consequences regarding individuals found guilty of possession, trade, distribution, export, import, or any other activity related to such precursors, in accordance with international law;
- 8. Calls upon Member States to strengthen maritime security in order to disrupt the trafficking of illicit substances and precursor chemicals, by:
 - a. participating in the UNODC-WCO Container Control Programme (CCP) to increase narcotics seizures and suspicious cargo interceptions in key ports and global shipping routes,
 - b. establishing and expanding Port Control Units (PCUs) to effectively identify questionable shipments from around the world,
 - c. strengthening regional cooperation between coastal and transit states in Central and South America to identify key maritime shipping trajectories,
 - d. promoting capacity-building initiatives and technical assistance programmes to support developing countries in the establishment of port security infrastructure;
- 9. Endorses all nations to implement effective interdiction measures against drug trafficking by establishing Non-Intrusive Inspection (NII) technologies at major land borders and harbours, including the use of advanced scanning systems to improve real-time detection of illicit substances and precursor chemicals;
- 10. Encourages the adoption of a Hard Security and Strategic Interdiction approach as a primary measure against narcotrafficking, through:
 - a. strengthening border security and supporting missions and operations led by law enforcement agencies to detect and dismantle trafficking routes, including but not limited to the deployment of specialized and rapid response teams in high-risk areas,
 - b. emphasizing the use of advanced surveillance and monitoring equipment in key transit points,
 - c. implementing maritime and aerial interdiction technologies to disrupt trafficking corridors across Central and South America;
- 12. Recommends all UN Member States to implement educational programmes in schools to teach the youth about drug consuming and let them know about the consequences of these substances;
- 13. Affirms the importance of educational “anti-drug” programs in public institutions, to further ensure that:

- a. all individuals, especially minors, are well informed on the matter of drug consumption and consequences,
- b. drug usage is viewed as a major threat to both health and public safety;

14. Proposes more economic opportunities for farmers of coca cultivation, who participate in providing supply because of survival needs, by:

- a. investing in new work positions and occupations,
- b. replacing coca with legal alternative cultivations with equal profit,
- c. offering life support and fixing the delays in financial assistance;

14. Encourages strengthening maritime security as a primary strategy to disrupt and prevent the expansion of illicit drug trafficking networks in Central and South America, by:

- a. deploying advanced surveillance and detection technologies, including but not limited to aerial drones, satellite monitoring systems, and high-capacity container scanning equipment, in order to enhance real-time tracking and inspection of suspicious maritime activities,
- b. implementing the installation of underwater surveillance systems in major ports, such as submersible cameras and sonar technologies, to detect and prevent the attachment of illicit substances to ship hulls and other submerged structures,
- c. enhancing coordination and intelligence-sharing among coastal states, port authorities, and international organizations, to ensure rapid identification and interception of trafficking operations,
- d. providing technical and financial assistance to developing states in the region, enabling them to acquire and maintain modern maritime security infrastructure,
- e. conducting specialized training programs for port and maritime security personnel, focusing on emerging smuggling techniques, including underwater concealment and semi-submersible vessels,
- f. encouraging public-private partnerships with shipping companies and port operators, to promote compliance, transparency, and the adoption of best practices in cargo security;

15. Recommends helping coca-producing farmers in the Andean region, where coca cultivation became more than a source of money, evolving into a source of survival, the key aspects to combating being:

- a. providing employment in high risk zones,

- b. partnering with the Food and Agriculture Organization and the United Nations Development Programme in order to replace coca production with banana plantations, partnering with the Food and Agriculture Organization and the United Nations Development Programme to replace coca production with other natural plantations, in correspondence with each country's climate and geographical position,
 - c. providing educational programmes in rural regions,
 - d. helping farmers that are being blackmailed by the drug-trafficking cartels;
- 16. Suggests the creation of national drug control commissions, for all Member States, which will be in charge of:
 - a. planning and coordinating drug control activities in their own country,
 - b. cooperating with the other commissions to guarantee intelligence sharing among all Member States;
- 17. Expresses its hope that drugs, such as but not limited to analgesics, antibacterials, opium, antibiotics, amoxicillin should only be used for medicinal purposes, by implementing periodic controls to prevent the illegal sells of pharmaceutical drugs;
- 18. Resolves the issue of coca-producing cartels by collaborating with the main source, by:
 - a. tracking down the cartels that stock up their network directly from farmers and dismantle them,
 - b. providing and fundraising protection institutes for farmers in the time of the investigations,
 - c. assuring replacements for cultivating legal goods,
 - d. utilizing the GAFILAT to identify and seize properties and assets held by undergoes and traffick cartel leaders;
- 19. Encourages Member States to strengthen cooperation between Governments and private logistics companies, such as FedEx and DHL, through:
 - a. developing voluntary public-private partnerships in order to intercept narcotics faster, while respecting national sovereignty,
 - b. implementing advanced X-ray scanners to identify high-risk cargo effectively,
 - c. promoting the instauration of a reporting mechanism that allows law enforcement and border patrol to collaborate and stop suspicious shipments;
- 20. Hopes that local farmers cease coca cultivation and transition to legal agricultural plantation, by:

- a. offering a free clean-up of the illegal coca crops, following the example of the U.S. national framework, namely the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA), which emphasizes a government-driven strategy to clean contaminated sites,
- b. investing in infrastructure development, such as but not limited to solar panels and irrigation systems, so that agriculturists do not have to spend money on such equipment,
- c. promoting public-private partnerships to ensure that local farmers benefit of free legal crops from nearby markets,
- d. facilitating the funding of capacity building initiatives aimed at encouraging individuals involved in the illicit production and cultivation of coca to choose more sustainable alternative sources of income;

21. Calls upon all Member States to implement the United Nations Convention against Corruption (UNCAC), by:

- a. enacting anti-corruption frameworks to reduce cartel influence,
- b. promoting the transparency and accountability of border control and law enforcement agencies,
- c. investigating corruption between national governments and narcotrafficking organizations, while respecting national sovereignty;

22. Encourages Member States to align with the standards of the Financial Action Task Force, by:

- a. adopting an anti-money laundering and counter-terrorist financing (AML/CFT) approach to detect and disrupt drug trafficking organizations,
- b. improving monitoring of suspicious transactions,
- c. enhancing cooperation between financial institutions and law enforcement agencies for real-time data sharing,
- d. supporting capacity-building initiatives to assist developing countries in implementing the FATF approach;

23. Invites people that are under the influence of cartels to viable economic opportunities, by:

- a. establishing and expanding youth employment and vocational training programs in high-risk regions of Central and South America, aimed at providing sustainable and legal sources of income, fostering entrepreneurship, and reducing the economic vulnerability that facilitates recruitment into drug-related activities,

- b. implementing comprehensive education and prevention initiatives within school systems, organized and supported by national governments, including awareness campaigns, mentorship programs, and community engagement efforts designed to inform young people of the risks and consequences associated with involvement in drug trafficking and organized crime,
- c. strengthening social support structures for at-risk populations, including access to counseling, family support services, and community development programs, in order to address the socio-economic conditions that contribute to recruitment by criminal organizations;

24. Supports financial surveillance and disrupting illicit financial flows linked to drug trafficking networks, by:

- a. establishing specialized financial intelligence units to monitor, detect, and investigate suspicious financial transactions associated with drug trafficking organizations,
- b. enhancing cooperation between national financial institutions, law enforcement agencies, and international bodies such as the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) to combat money laundering and the use of shell companies,
- c. regulating and monitoring the use of emerging financial technologies, including cryptocurrencies, to prevent their exploitation for illicit transactions and laundering activities;

25. Proposes community-based intelligence networks to support the identification and prevention of drug trafficking activities, by:

- a. establishing secure and anonymous reporting mechanisms to encourage civilians to report suspicious activities,
- b. building trust between communities and law enforcement through outreach and engagement programs,
- c. providing incentives for credible intelligence that leads to successful disruption of trafficking operations, in accordance with national legislation,
- d. supporting local organizations and community leaders in facilitating communication with authorities;

26. Seeks the monitoring and analysis of evolving drug trafficking routes, by:

- a. establishing regional monitoring systems to track trafficking route shifts, through:
 - i. mapping of historical seizure and arrest data,
 - ii. identification of emerging trafficking corridors,
- b. enhancing cooperation with UNODC to share real-time information and annual reports,
- c. utilizing advanced data analytics systems;

27. Establishing rehabilitation institutions for drug addicts, in order to:

- a. minimize the massive demand in the South American states,
- b. avoid withdrawal effects on sober patients implementing periodic check-ups on previous patients to make sure they do not fall into addiction again,
- c. improve the quality of healthcare systems in South and Central America;

28. Encourages the establishment of a regional banking transparency framework in collaboration with Central and South American states to improve information sharing on questionable transactions, while respecting national sovereignty, by:

- a. creating a secure communication channel between national financial authorities and Financial Intelligence Units,
- b. promoting the collaboration with international organizations such as UNODC and Financial Action Task Force to combat anti-money laundering,
- c. developing a reporting system for suspicious transactions;

29. Suggests the establishment of a 24/7 international hotline meant to be used as a medium of communication for informants which wish to anonymously provide information related to drug trafficking;

30. Suggests immediate military intervention from each state in case of a border security breach in order to disrupt the flow of illicit drugs through the major trafficking routes;

31. Proclaims that all measures taken must fall within the limits of respect for the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all states involved;
32. Recommends the prohibition of websites that encourage online sale and promote drug usage, the tracing and dismantling of networks that distribute illicit drugs via online communications, particularly platforms that target minors;
33. Accepts the reintegration of ex-drug users into society after the completion of their rehabilitation programs and the serving of their sentence, under the terms that:
- a. they were not previously involved in major drug trafficking and organised criminal activity,
 - b. their only notable offence is drug consumption or low-level smuggling;
34. Remains actively seized on this matter.